CH. 1 INTRODUCTION

1.1. Objectives of the Guideline

This guideline aims to establish the objectives, procedures, and management standards of the internship program conducted by Jakarta International University (JIU) to enhance students' practical skills and social adaptability through field experience related to the student's major. This guideline provides a step-by-step process guide for the JIU student internship program.

1.2 Definition of the Internship

"Internship" refers to a process in which a student learns and gains practical experience for a certain period at an external organization approved by the school or within the school. It is part of a job training system that is held in an integrated manner between training in institutions under the guidance of a supervisor or more experienced workers in the process of producing goods and/or services in the company, to master certain skills or expertise.

The internship needs to be carefully designed to create a specific work experience for students. By completing the internship, students are trained to recognize and assimilate the scope of work within the company, adapting to the environment and complementing the learning process obtained from lectures.

1.3 Participation bodies and roles

1) Student

Students are responsible for the comprehensive execution of their internship, encompassing the planning, application, active participation, reporting of activities, and formal request for academic credit.

2) Study Program

Each respective Study Program is responsible for the approval, ongoing monitoring, evaluation, and authorization of academic grades and credit hours for student internships.

3) Academic Affairs

For internal internships, Academic Affairs is responsible for collecting intern requests, making announcements of internal internship position openings, and processing applications.

After the internship finishes, Academic Affairs is responsible for verifying and officially issuing academic grades and credits for internships, based on the recommendations provided by the respective Study Programs.

4) JIU HR Department

The JIU HR Department is responsible for determining appropriate allowances and formalizing contracts for internal internships, contingent upon requests from relevant internal departments.

1.4 Process of Internship

The internship will be completed through the following process.

Application	– Screening and approval	– Internship & guidance	– Evaluation	– Credit approval
